Malaysian immigration does not recognize male common-law spouses. Therefore it is currently not possible for the British Council to obtain dependent / residence visas for male partners without a legal marriage certificate.

Accommodation
There is no shortage of accommodation. A flat is between RM1900-2100. An apartment in a condominium with a swimming pool and other facilities is between RM2,800-3,500. And houses costs from RM2500 to RM4000 per month.

Prices drop as you move outside the city and it’s a good idea to follow the LRT and monorail routes. Most teachers live within 10-30 minutes travelling time of the teaching centres.

It normally doesn't take long to find a place, either from ads in the paper or through agents. Both furnished and unfurnished accommodation is available. Rent agreements are for one or two years and usually involve 2 months’ rent deposit and a month in advance. Electricity is 230 volts, 50 cycles AC, which is suitable for all normal British appliances and UK-style 3-pin plugs are generally used.

Schooling & Childcare
There is no financial support provided for schooling.

There are a number of International Schools but they are expensive – average £4000 a year, depending on age and that after a large non-refundable registration fee. There are plenty of English medium nursery schools and these are much less expensive. Baby-sitters cost about £4 an hour. A live-in maid costs approximately £400 a month and requires a payment upfront. A maid two days a week costs around £120 a month.

Job Opportunities for Partners
Opportunities for partners to find work are extremely limited. There are International Schools for qualified teachers and some other industries will obtain employment passes for foreign talent.

Others
The initial contract is for two years and can be renewed on a year-by-year basis subject to satisfactory performance by you and on mutual agreement between the British Council Malaysia and you.

Whilst the above information was accurate at time of writing, specific details and entitlements are subject to change.
